One Login for Everything

"From IT's presentation, the goal of moving away from multiple passwords is that people tend to forget the passwords and/or tend to use a simple password that isn't as secure. It will also allow one central spot to manage accounts and access. E.g., IT can create account groups that give access to Zoom, Canvas, Microsoft, Clockwork, etc.."

- Relatively New Smartphone
- Take Phone to Class
- Personal Equipment

"IT is handling the various methods allowed. Currently the methods include text message, Microsoft authenticator, or a security key that IT can provide to any faculty or student that may not have access to a mobile device.

InPrivate browsing
InPrivate search with Microsoft Bing
What InPrivate browsing does
Deletes your browsing info when you close all InPrivate windows
Saves collections, favorites, and downloads (but not download history)
Prevents Microsoft Bing searches from being associated with you
What InPrivate browsing doesn't do
Hide your browsing from your school, employer, or internet service provider
Give you additional protection from tracking by default
Add additional protection to what's available in normal browsing
Always use "Strict" tracking prevention when browsing InPrivate
If this is off, we'll use the same tracking prevention setting as a normal browsing window
